Introducing Spark

A Neurodiversity-Affirming App to Empower ADHD Girls

By Aashna Parsa, Youth for Neurodiversity Inc.

ADHD isn’t a deficit.

It’s untapped potential.

1 in 5

Undiagnosed ADHD girls
Bullied, isolated, depressed

ADHD presents differently in girls

Attention Deficit ~~Hyperactivity~~ Disorder

Personal Inspiration

I am a founder of Youth for Neurodiversity Inc. with ADHD and neuromuscular deficits in my right hand. My mom is 2e-ADHD.

Spark isn’t just an app I built — it’s the tool I needed growing up, and the one I still need today.”

The Problem

Executive Function

Isolation

Low Confidence

Most productivity apps organize tasks. Spark supports the whole person.

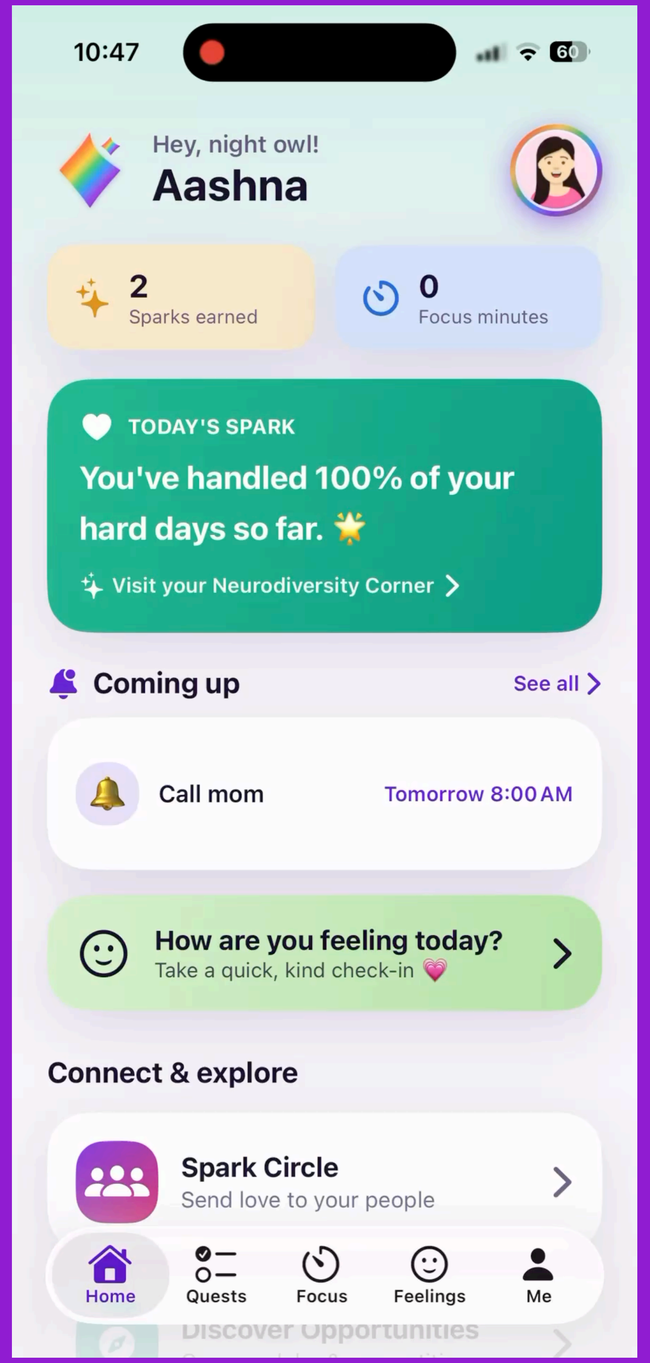

The Solution: Spark

Gamified Toolkits & Focus Realms

Spark circles & body doubling

Celebrate uniqueness & strengths

Spark Demo

10:47
Hey, night owl!
Aashna
2
Sparks earned
0
Focus minutes
TODAY'S SPARK
You've handled 100% of your hard days so far. 🌟
Visit your Neurodiversity Corner
Coming up
See all
Call mom
Tomorrow 8:00 AM
How are you feeling today?
Take a quick, kind check-in 💗
Connect & explore
Spark Circle
Send love to your people
Home
Quests
Focus
Feelings
Me

Screenshots

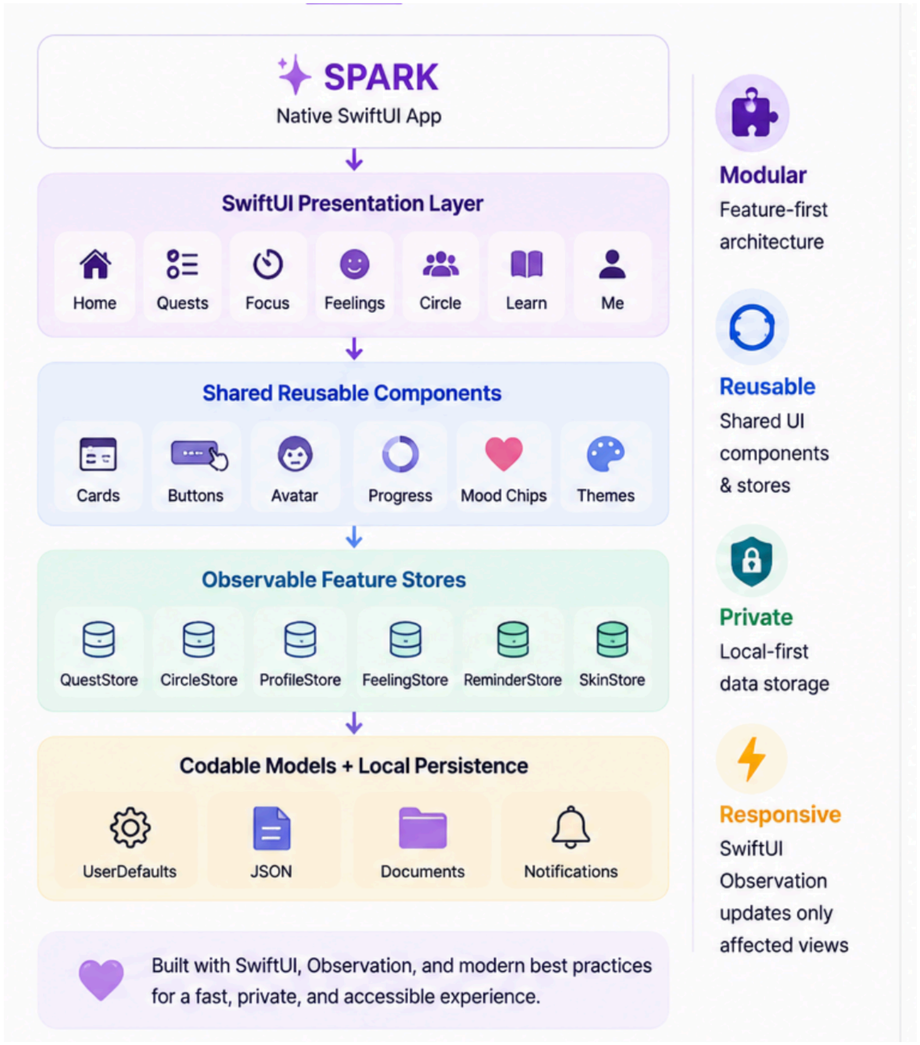

Screenshots

Screenshots

Code Spotlight

Challenges & Accomplishments

Scope bloat as I kept getting more ideas

Had hand surgery, couldn’t type fast

Swift was new to me

App is being used by ADHD girls and receiving great feedback!

Leveraging AI

Claude for vibe coding initial concept

Cursor for app structure, design, and programming

ChatGPT for understanding concepts and code

Future Iterations

Using external content store for dynamic data (opportunities and education content)

Audio for sending sparks, reminders

Crowdsourcing favorite music songs for focus realms

Thank you!

Aashna Parsa

Founder of Youth for Neurodiversity Inc.

https://YouthforND.org

https://www.linkedin.com/in/aashna-parsa/

@YouthforND